

Driven by innovation

Technologically advanced hydraulic pumps, motors and, in particular, the first mobile lifting crane all originated from the technology used by Eric Sundin during the ski production in Hudiksvall. Ever since its foundation in 1925, Sunfab has been a family company characterized by innovation, skills and visions of the future. Today, Sunfab is a world leader in hydraulics. The motivation has been to develop a technology with the individual in mind. To facilitate and streamline everyday work.

After more than 80 years, the third generation of the Sundins are still running the company in the spirit of Eric Sundin, with a family atmosphere, flexibility and innovative solutions. Sunfab's products are still manufactured in the company's own factories in Hudiksvall, which currently employ 87 people.

Sunfab is represented in more than 60 countries. We run development, manufacture and sales at our headquarters in Hudiksvall and have subsidiaries in Germany, France, UK, the USA, Spain and Italy. We sell through distributors across the globe.

Our products are used in mobile lifting cranes, platform loaders, concrete mixers, refuse lorries, snowplow and many other demanding engineering applications.

We provide quality, on time.
